HANMER SPRINGS

THERMAL POOLS & SPA

Nestled in the magnificent South Island high country, just 90 minutes from Christchurch, Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools & Spa is the perfect place to rebalance and unwind. The Thermal Pools have been attracting visitors for more than 125 years, all seeking the benefits of the natural mineral waters, clear alpine air and uplifting environment.

Set in the heart of the village we offer 15 open-air thermal pools of varying temperatures, private thermal pools, sauna and steam rooms, heated freshwater pools with a lazy river as well as a large family activity pool and children's AquaPlay area, and three waterslides including the SuperBowl. Our international spa, The Spa at Hanmer Springs, specialises in offering spa, body and beauty treatments to enhance the wellbeing of our customers. All of these facilities are set amongst landscaped gardens offering picnic areas and a licensed café.

THE HANMER SPRINGS EXPERIENCE

OUR ORIGIN

For centuries, people have been bathing in the mineral water.

Early Maori used the springs to ease the aches and pains of overland travel as they moved between the east and the west coasts.

Maori legend tells of Tamatea, a great Maori traveller, and his crew experiencing difficulty when travelling the South Island. In danger of freezing to death, Tamatea appealed to the northern volcanoes, Tongariro and Ngauruhoe to save his party.

A ball of flame erupted from the volcanoes. This fire travelled down the Whanganui River to the sea, then became airborne. As it travelled through the sky pieces of ash fell at Hanmer Springs and other points along the route to form the origins of hot springs.

Hanmer Springs is known to Maori as Te Whakatakataka O te Ngarehu O Ahi Tamatea – “where the ashes of Tamatea’s fire lay”.

OUR STORY

The story of Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools and Spa is steeped in history and is as rich as the minerals in our natural waters.

Travelling Maori were the first to discover the thermal springs hundreds of years ago and would rest and bathe here. When the early pioneers arrived, they too discovered the waters and in 1871 a small tin shed was built for bathers to change in.

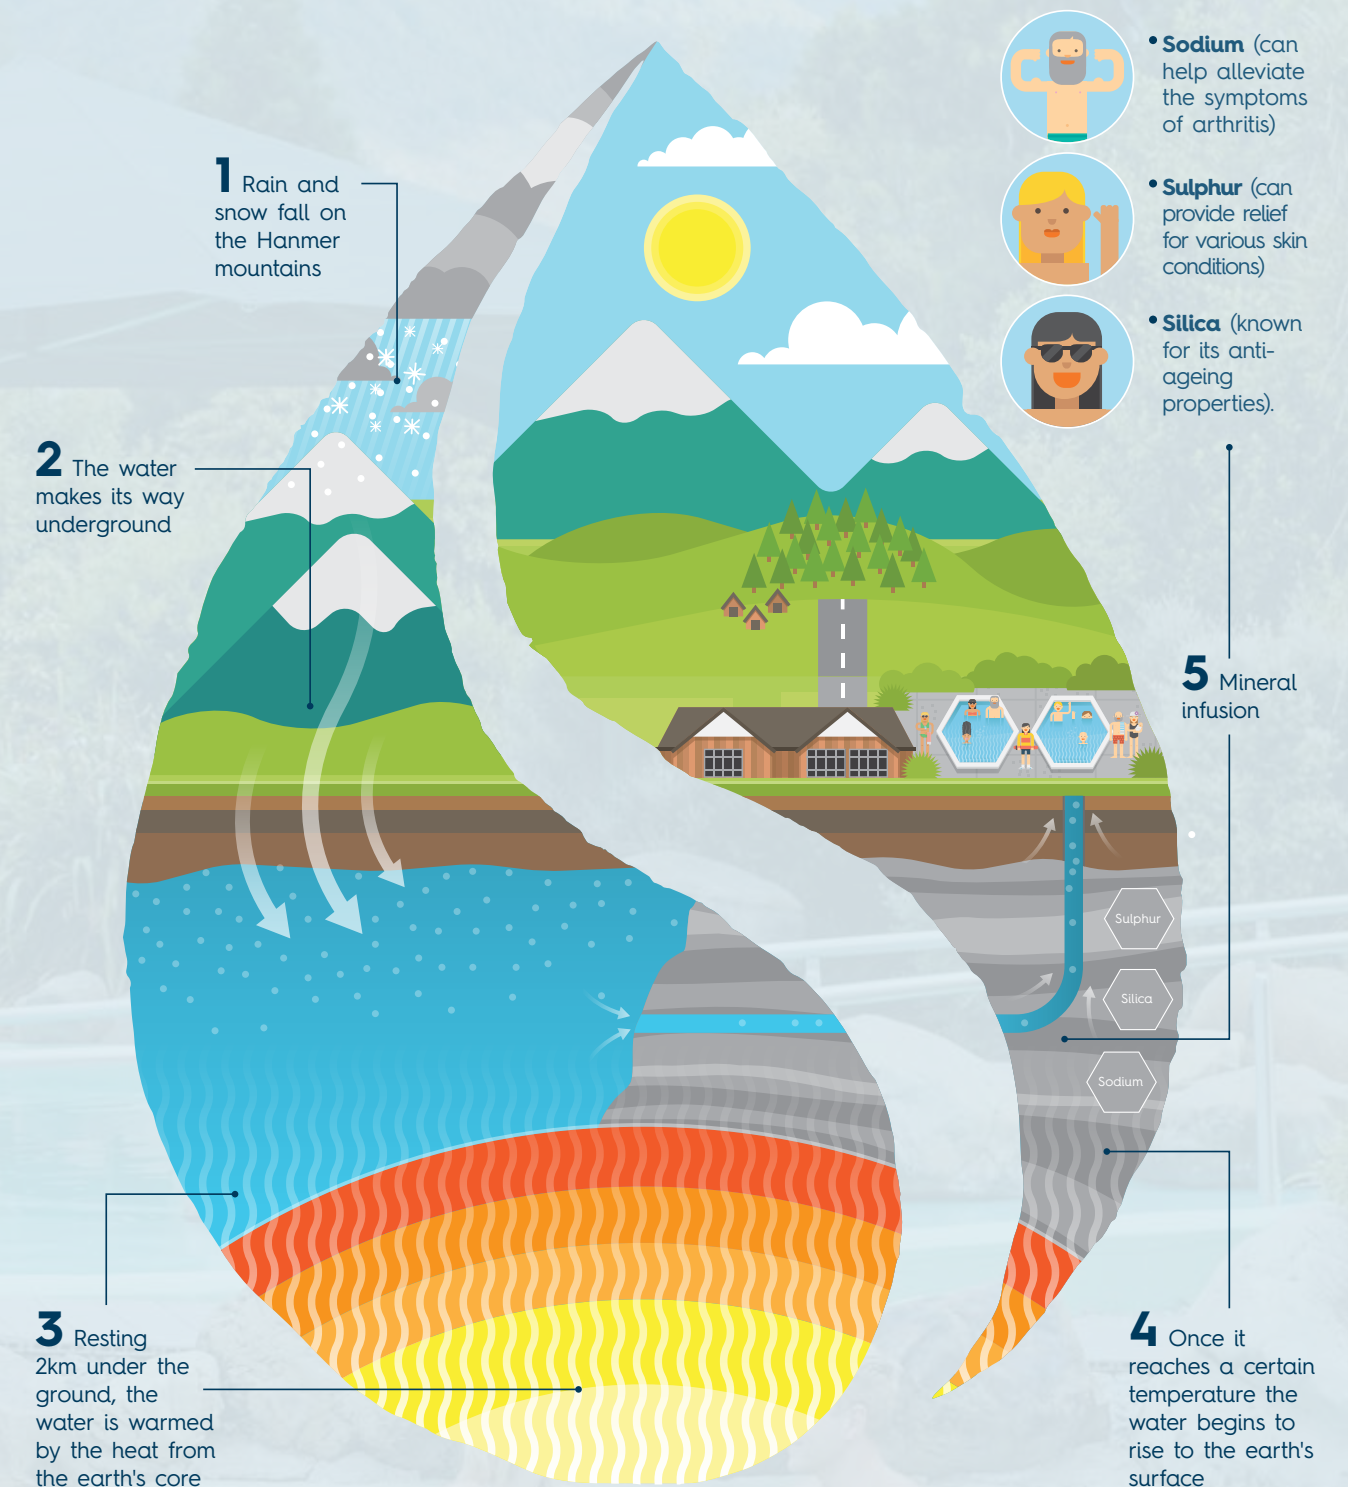

In those days the bathing was nude and segregated so users would hoist either a skirt or some trousers up a pole so visitors knew whether males or females were using the pool.

That tin shed is now long gone – in its place is one of New Zealand’s most popular tourism attractions; the multi-million dollar, award-winning Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools and Spa.

We offer something for everyone; which is why we attract more than half a million visitors every year.
